Spartanburg Water Technical Papers Selected for Presentations
at South Carolina Environmental Conference

Spartanburg Water officials announce that seven Spartanburg Water employees co-authored and were selected to present technical papers at the S.C. Environmental Conference sponsored by the Water Environment Association of South Carolina and the American Water Works Association’s South Carolina Section.

On March 23, 2010, in Myrtle Beach, S.C., the following employees presented technical papers of importance to the South Carolina Environmental Conference:

Gene Jackson	Director of Engineering	“Alternative Project Delivery for Utilities, a User’s Guide to Getting Started”
Ken Tuck	Director of Water Treatment	“Benefits of Apprenticeship Programs for Water and Wastewater Operators”
Bobby Walden	Director of Distribution and Collection	“Infrastructure Replacement: The Value of Talking Inside and Outside the Trenches”
Jane Arrington	Technical Services Project Manager
Janet Cann	Project Manager	“A Slick Solution: Spartanburg Water Septage and Grease Receiving Station”
Joel Jones	Operations Manager
Eric Tisdale	WWTP Lead Operator

The selection of these technical papers and the presenters during this important conference recognizes the technical expertise and highlights the continuous learning pursued by employees of Spartanburg Water demonstrating outstanding leadership and achievement in the Water and Wastewater Industry.

Spartanburg Water’s staff continues to be committed to being good stewards of the environment, protecting public health, and supporting our community’s desired quality of life.
