National Drinking Water Week May 3 – 9, 2009

National Drinking Water Week has been celebrated for more than 30 years. It is an opportunity to consider how important water is to each of us. During this week, each citizen of our community is called upon to consider ways to protect our source waters from pollution, and to commit to practice water conservation on an on-going basis.

Spartanburg Water is proud to provide a safe reliable water supply to our community. Spartanburg Water professionals work 24/7/365 to keep water flowing through the hundreds of miles of water lines across the community, and ensure environmentally responsible stewardship of local waterways.

Join Spartanburg Water in celebrating National Drinking Water Week by taking a moment to appreciate this great resource! Remember what water does. It helps keep us healthy; fights fires; supports our economy; provides us with the high quality of life we enjoy.

For more information on conservation and stewardship of this resource, visit our web site at www.Spartanburgwater.org.
